Rules of Access to Plots

Members of a plot-holder's household can visit and work on the plot without the plot-holder being present and can hold their own key to the site (subject to the usual charges for keys and a maximum of two keys per household).

Other TFAS plot-holders can work on the plot, with the plot-holder's permission, and can do so without the plot-holder being present.

A plot-holder can allow one person from outside the plot-holder's household to apply to the Membership Secretary to become a "Garden Member" (see below). A Garden Member can visit and work on the plot without the plot-holder being present and can hold a separate key to the site (subject to the usual charges for and rules concerning keys).

Friends of the plot-holder or Garden Member can visit the plot, but the plot-holder or a Garden Member must be present.

Keys to the site can only be held by the plot-holder, members of their family or Garden Members.
